Dear Parents

Most adults are prepared to take action in the event of a fire.

However, to a child, a fire can be terrifying and confusing. Knowing the right steps to take can mean the difference between life and death.

As a legislator, I know that we can set up safety laws and regulations to help prevent accidental fires. However, we can't teach every child what to do when a fire occurs.

Remember, young children are the most frequent victims of fires – often fires that they caused themselves by playing with matches or misusing a stove, iron or other heated equipment. By teaching them how to protect themselves, we can help them avoid accidents and save more lives.
